THE KOSCIUSZKO FOUNDATION STANDS UP FOR POLONIA, BUT WE NEED YOUR HELP

By Alex Storozynski

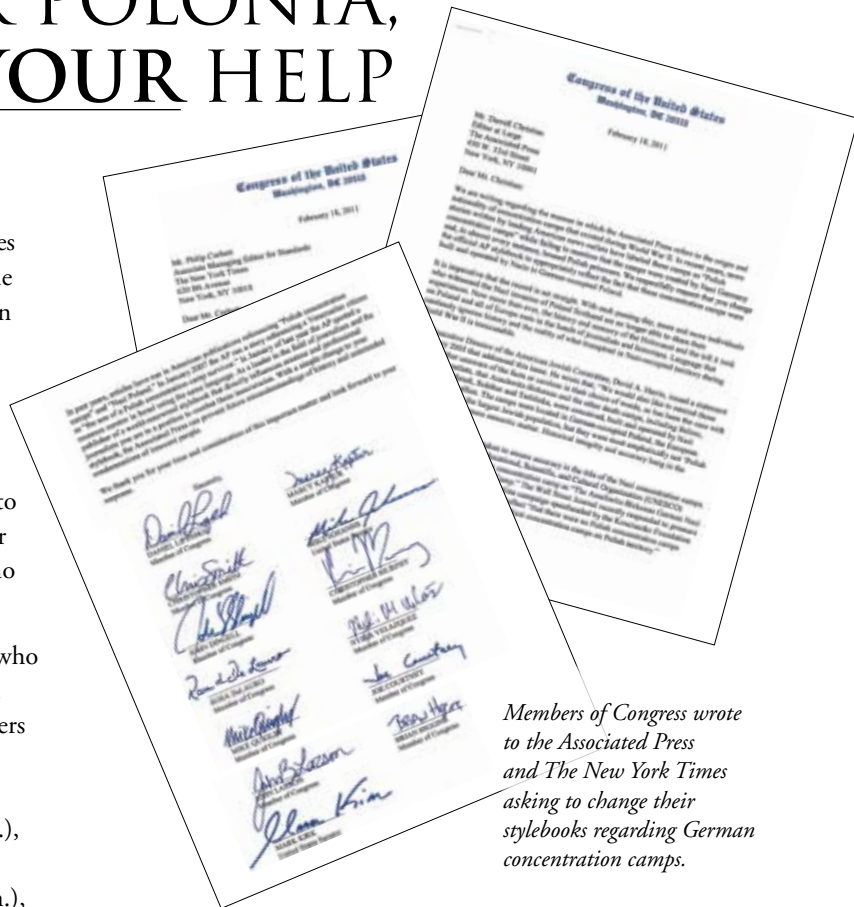

A recent survey by Newsweek found that 40 percent of Americans do not know which countries the United States fought during World War II. It's no wonder given that the media often refers to Auschwitz as a "Polish concentration camp," which is a rewrite of history.

That is why I posted a petition on The Kosciuszko Foundation website asking newspapers to change their style guides to avoid using this historically erroneous phrase. It confuses undereducated readers, leading them to believe that the Holocaust was executed by Poland, rather than Nazi Germany. My sincerest thanks to all of you who signed the petition.

I also contacted members of the United States Congress who wrote letters to The New York Times and The Associated Press asking them to change their stylebooks. The members of Congress that signed these letters were Rep. Daniel Lipinski (Ill.), Marcy Kaptur (Ohio), Christopher Smith (NJ), John Dingell (Mich.), Christopher Murphy (Conn.), Rosa DeLauro (Conn.), Nydia Velazquez (NY), Mike Quigley (Ill.), Joe Courtney (Conn.), John Larson (Conn.), Brian Higgins (NY), and Sen. Mike Johanns (Neb.), Sen. Mark Kirk (Ill). Thank you to all of them for supporting Polonia on this issue.

As a result of the petition and our letters, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal and The San Francisco Chronicle have changed their stylebooks, and promised to be more vigilant in avoiding this error. We will continue collecting signatures on this petition until The Associated Press, Washington Post and all media outlets stop using this phrase. Keeping the petition posted online costs money, so please join the Kosciuszko Foundation and send in donations so that we can keep this action going. Please be part of the solution.

This small victory shows what Polonia can do if we work together to educate Americans about the truth. The Kosciuszko Foundation's primary mission is education and promoting Polish culture in the United States. Thanks to a scholarship that I received in the 1980s, I was able to earn my Master's Degree at the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism. Others who have received scholarships or grants from the Kosciuszko Foundation over the years include economist Leszek Balcerowicz, historian Norman Davies, journalist Andrew Nagorski, Prof. Anna Cienciala author of Katyn: A Crime Without Punishment, Columbia University Prof. John Micgiel, journalist Jolanta Fajkowska, Lt. Gen. Edward Rowny, Dr. Julian Kulski, Rabbi Michael Schudrich, Nowy Dziennik Editor Jan Latus, director Juliusz Machulski who made such films as Vabank, Kiler and Seksmisja, Dr. Tomasz Rogula, the artist Franciszek Starowieyski, Senator Marek Ziolkowski, poet Agata Tuszynska, plus many, many more.

In the following pages of this newsletter you will find some of the scholarship recipients for the current year. In the 18th century, Tadeusz Kosciuszko said, "By nature, we are all equals – virtue, riches and knowledge constitute the only difference." Education is the key to success, and Kosciuszko dedicated his life to the liberation and education of the underprivileged. He also donated his last will and testament to the education of peasants and slaves. In the 20th century, another virtuous Pole, Stephen Mizwa, followed his example and established the Kosciuszko Foundation whose primary mission is education and promoting Polish culture.

P E T I T I O N

on German Concentration Camps

WHEREAS the media uses the historically erroneous terms “Polish concentration camp” and “Polish death camp” to describe Auschwitz and other Nazi extermination camps built by the Germans during World War II, which confuses impressionable and undereducated readers, leading them to believe that the Holocaust was executed by Poland, rather than Nazi Germany,

WHEREAS these phrases are Holocaust revisionism that desecrate the memories of six million Jews from 27 countries who were murdered by Nazi Germany,

WHEREAS Poland was the first country invaded by Germany, and the only country whose citizens suffered the death penalty for rescuing Jews, yet never surrendered during six years of German occupation, even though one-sixth of its population was killed in the war, approximately half of which was Christian,

WHEREAS educated journalists must know these facts and not cross the libel threshold of malice by using phrases such as “Polish concentration camps.”

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the undersigned request that The New York Times, The Washington Post, the Associated Press, and TIME magazine include entries in their stylebooks requiring news stories to be historically accurate, using the official name of all “German concentration camps in Nazi-occupied Poland,” as UNESCO did in 2007 when it named the camp in Auschwitz, “The Auschwitz-Birkenau German Nazi Concentration and Extermination Camp (1940-1945).”

The New York Times

Dear Mr. Storozyński:

After further discussions of the concerns raised by you and others, Times editors have decided to add an entry to the newsroom’s stylebook specifically cautioning journalists to avoid misleading phrases like “Polish concentration camp.”

As we have already pointed out, editors immediately took steps to correct the erroneous references to Dachau in an online caption over the weekend. We also published a correction about the phrase “Polish concentration camp” in an obituary last fall. We understand the great sensitivity of this topic and regret that any such lapses have occurred. But we would like to reiterate that such instances, however unfortunate, are simply mistakes, and it is wrong to suggest that they reflect any malice or deliberate distortion.

Still, to demonstrate our shared concern over this issue, we will add a note on this point to the stylebook and take extra care to try to avoid any further errors.

Sincerely,

Eileen M. Murphy

As the years rolled on and the challenges facing Poland changed with the times, the Foundation’s work has evolved to meet those challenges. Mizwa started the Foundation after Poland’s rebirth, but his mission took on new meaning during the years of Nazism, Communism and the Cold War. Today, Poland is once again free and part of NATO and the European Union. Many Kosciuszko Foundation alumni have taken part in that transformation.

These days, young Poles and Polish-Americans are uniquely poised to change the world, not just through humanities and the arts, but through the sciences, technology and business as well. But it takes money to finance their dreams through education. With scholarships, they can become the leaders of tomorrow. For the 21st century, the Kosciuszko Foundation wants to build on the examples set by Kosciuszko and Mizwa, but we need your help to do it.

HOW YOU CAN SHOW YOUR POLISH PRIDE AND FULFILL POLONIA’S MISSION

The Kosciuszko Foundation can only continue its activities supporting Polish culture and awarding scholarships if we receive support from people like you. To donate to the Kosciuszko Foundation in the United States in New York, call 212 734 2130, or visit us on the web at <http://www.thekf.org>

POLISH SENATE HOSTS KOSCIUSZKO FOUNDATION EXHIBIT IN WARSAW

“The Kosciuszko Foundation promotes numerous activities, especially in the field of culture and education, promoting closer ties between Poland and the United States.”

SOLIDARITY ACTIVIST AND SPEAKER OF THE SENATE
BOGDAN BORUSEWICZ

Kosciuszko Foundation President Alex Storozynski has announced that the Foundation is now legally registered in Poland as “Fundacja Kościuszkowska Polska,” which allows Polish citizens to make donations and receive tax deductions of up to 6% of their annual income in Poland. Corporations in Poland that donate to the Kosciuszko Foundation can deduct up to 10% of their corporate earnings.

Storozynski unveiled an exhibit “Kosciuszko Foundation: The American Center of Polish Culture,” at the Polish Senate building on March 16. The exhibit moved next to the American Embassy in Warsaw and will be on tour in Poland for the next several months.

Prominent Solidarity activist and Speaker of the Senate, Bogdan Borusewicz, opened the exhibit by saying: “The Kosciuszko Foundation promotes numerous activities, especially in the field of culture and education, promoting closer ties between Poland and the United States.”

The United States Ambassador in Poland, Lee A. Feinstein, underlined the important role that the Kosciuszko Foundation fulfilled and is still fulfilling “in building permanent ties between Poland and America.”

The exhibit was hosted by Senator Andrzej Person, Chairman of the Committee on Liaison with Poles Abroad. A copy of the exhibit can be downloaded for free from The Kosciuszko Foundation web site, <http://www.thekf.org/>

Mr. Storozynski said, “The Kosciuszko Foundation has provided a forum in New York for Polish dignitaries such as Cardinal Karol Wojtyla before he became Pope, Czeslaw Milosz, Jan Karski, Wladyslaw Bartoszewski, Maria Kaczynska, and many others to meet with Americans in New York.”

Mr. Storozynski said, “For decades, the Kosciuszko Foundation has educated Polonia’s leaders and promoted Polish issues in America. Each year we give away money for scholarships, so we must raise funds to continue our mission. The Kościuszko Foundation Poland allows Polish taxpayers to get tax credits for supporting higher education and to improve Poland’s standing in the United States.”

Storozynski said, “We have to thank the international law firm White & Case, which has been doing pro bono work for the Foundation for many years. It advised and assisted the Foundation every step of the way in becoming a registered Polish foundation. Their work is very important for Polonia.”

CARDINAL KAROL WOJTYŁA

AT THE KOSCIUSZKO FOUNDATION

On September 4, 1976 Cardinal Karol Wojtyła visited the Kosciuszko Foundation and told its members that the work of the Foundation is “particularly important at this time. We realize that culture creates a national identity, and in the end creates the nation itself.”

Cardinal Wojtyła, who two years later became Pope John Paul II, praised the work of “The Kosciuszko Foundation, which attempts to diligently serve the interests of the Polish people. We must be grateful to everyone who has contributed to these efforts, and to those who are continuing to work towards these goals. This work is one of the greatest components of our national identity.”

This was true in 1976, and it’s just as true today. The work of the Foundation preserves Polish culture and works to educate the next generation of Polish and Polish-American leaders. Founded in 1925, the Kosciuszko Foundation promotes closer ties between Poland and the United States through educational, scientific and cultural exchanges. It awards up to $1 million annually in fellowships and grants to graduate students, scholars, scientists, professionals and artists, and promotes Polish culture in America. The Foundation has awarded scholarships and provided a forum to Poles who have changed history.

In the 18th century, Tadeusz Kosciuszko said, “By nature, we are all equals - virtue, riches and knowledge constitute the only difference.” Education is the key to success, and Kosciuszko dedicated his life to the liberation and education of the underprivileged. He also donated his last will and testament to the education of peasants and slaves. In the 20th century, another virtuous Pole, Stephen Mizwa, followed his example and established the Kosciuszko Foundation whose primary mission is education and promoting Polish culture.

THE PAINTINGS OF KRYSTYNA BRZECHWA

AT THE KOSCIUSZKO FOUNDATION

Opening of Brzechwa's Exhibit
at the Kosciuszko Foundation
Dec 10, 2010

Fridays, New Yorkers leave their homes in search of entertainment – they “go out.” On Friday, December 10 2010, a large group of them headed to the Kosciuszko Foundation for the opening of an exhibition of works by Krystyna Brzechwa, a painter from Warsaw. Krystyna Brzechwa studied at the Warsaw Academy of Fine Arts and got her degree in the atelier of Eugeniusz Eibisch. Since 1956, when she participated in the nation-wide exhibition of young Polish artists in Warsaw’s Arsenal, she has shown her paintings on numerous occasions in Poland and abroad. In addition to Europe, her paintings can be found in collections in Canada and in the United States, where they are at the Chicago Polish Museum and Society of Arts, the Schermerhorn Gallery of Columbia University in New York, at the Clark University Art Gallery in Massachusetts and in many private collections.

This was not Ms Brzechwa’s first visit to New York. In 1993 she had a similar show at the Polish Institute of Arts and Sciences. The painting “Clown with Drum,” which was on the invitation for the earlier exhibit, appears again at the Kosciuszko Foundation, while two drawings depicting a pair of New Yorkers and Halloween in New York are mementos of her first visit to our city. Friends from years past came to see Ms Brzechwa and her paintings again. It turns out that many Polish Americans, and not only Poles, remember the earlier exhibit and even have paintings purchased at that time in their homes. The current exhibit has been organized precisely through the initiative and assistance of collectors of Krystyna Brzechwa’s paintings – Dr. and Mrs. Jonas, Professor Alex Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. David and Donna Pylp and others who lent their paintings to the Kosciuszko Foundation. The honorary curator of the exhibit was Dr. Stanislaw Jonas; twelve of his paintings were on display in the exhibit, not counting the beautiful portrait of his daughter, which belongs to her. Magda Mazurek-Nuovo, the director of Cultural Programs at the Kosciuszko Foundation and the organizer of this exhibit says that due to space limitations, many other beautiful paintings had to be cut from the show. Additionally, Ms Brzechwa arrived from Poland the day before the opening and brought with her several new works, which were included in the exhibition. In total, more than twenty works were on exhibit at the Kosciuszko Foundation. They were large oils as well as ink drawings and pastels. A few of them (a total of nine) were available for sale, among them a large oil painting of newlyweds against a background of a flowering garden, a black haired maiden listening to the devil’s insinuations and some recently arrived color and black and white drawings.

Krystyna Brzechwa's paintings depict solitary figures (even when they are in pairs) as though from this or another world. The artist has a unique style of presenting her subjects. In her paintings they appear surrounded by flowers, in the company of cats and birds, as well as devils, angels, fauns and other fantastic creatures. The cheerful colors of the paintings contrast with the tragic human figures. Their huge eyes overflow with sadness, as though they want to tell us something about their suffering. Their elongated and twisted figures betray pain and inner turmoil. Other times the static figures bring to mind actors in classical poses or figures from a puppet theater.

During the opening evening I had the pleasure of speaking briefly with Ms Brzechwa about her artistic tastes and inspirations, as well as about other matters not necessarily dealing directly with the exhibit. Asked whether family traditions influenced her art, the artist categorically denied the influence of her father, Jan Brzechwa, author of the widely known poems and fairy tales for children. However, half in jest, she admitted that there might be some kind of genetic artistic bond between her and her ancestors. As a child, she read the books of her uncle, the great poet, Boleslaw Lesmian, who gave her his books as gifts. Without a doubt they roused the imagination of the future painter as they did that of other young readers of The Adventures of Sinbad the Sailor or Sesame Tales. Ms Brzechwa stressed that these may be totally subconscious connections. She suspects similar genetic influences in the artistic attempts of Lesmian's granddaughter – still living in England – who most likely never read her grandfather's poems nor saw the missing paintings of Zofia Chylinska, her grandmother and Lesmian's wife. However, more probable than just genes would have been the actual influence of her maternal great-aunt, Czeslawa Sunderland, also a painter, who to some extent even inspired the paintings of Ms Brzechwa.

To the question which artists might have influenced her, Ms Brzechwa said "I'm unable to mimic, sometimes I even regret this..." But, naturally, she has her favorite artists. She confessed that she loves Goya and Velazquez: "Once, when I was in Paris, I saw an exhibition of the collected works of Goya and I was dumbstruck. When I was in New York the last time, I saw an exhibit of Velazquez, and I was dumbstruck, again. When I saw those Infantas, I nearly fell over." She also confessed that Velazquez was the inspiration for the beautiful Infantas that appear in her paintings. When I asked about Polish painters and suggested a similarity in the use of symbols between Jacek Malczewski and herself (figures surrounded by devils, angels, chimera) she denied it, because while she likes Malczewski, she doesn't feel a connection in their paintings. She did, however, admit to an artistic kinship with Tadeusz Makowski, who is closer to her. At the exhibition it was not difficult to notice a similarity in their themes. For example, the mysterious world of children in three-cornered caps can be found in the works of both artists which, in the Kosciuszko Foundation show, was demonstrated by "Boy with Flower".

During the opening at the Foundation, I was intrigued by the reactions of the viewers and their overheard opinions. They studied the paintings closely, returning to some many times, obviously trying to decipher their hidden meanings, judge their unusual form and maybe guess at the painter's message. The varied works elicited dramatically different reactions. One lady, entering the Foundation's vestibule, exclaimed: "Oh, how cheerful these paintings are!" I surmise that she was reacting to the bright, intense colors of the works. Other viewers expressed the opposite opinions. They saw tragedy, anxiety and fear – even in the eyes of the newlyweds situated in the cherry orchard. Of particular interest for the viewers were "The Cage" inside which lay the curled up figure of a woman, and "The Judgment" – giving the verdict to two half-human, half-devilish, sinful creatures. The viewers were fascinated by the hidden subtext of the paintings, in which they found the expression of their own sorrows, fears and hopes.

Ms Brzechwa is a very modest, natural and direct person. She doesn't interpret her paintings, leaving that to the viewers. In answer to the question about what inspired her, posed by a visitor to the exhibit, who had just purchased one of the pastels, she answered simply: "I bought some new paint, so I painted it."

EXCHANGE FELLOWSHIPS AND GRANTS FOR POLISH CITIZENS FOR ADVANCED STUDY/RESEARCH AND/OR TEACHING IN THE UNITED STATES FOR THE ACADEMIC YEAR 2010/11

Every year, during its Semi-Annual Meeting, the Board of Trustees of the Kosciuszko Foundation approves funding for the Exchange Program with Poland for the next academic year. Last April, the Board allocated $290,470 for 21 scholars and scientists from Poland to receive the Fellowships and Grants for the 2010/2011 academic year.

The decision of the Foundation's Board was based on the results of a very careful selection process, including personal interviews, conducted by the members of the U.S. Academic Advisory Committee in the US and Polish Academic Commission in March at the Foundation's Warsaw Office.

The U.S. Academic Advisory Committee is composed of the following members:

1. Prof. M.B. Biskupski, Department of History, Central Connecticut State University, New Britain, CT.
2. Dr. Ronald J. Hagadus, Chairman of the Kosciuszko Foundation Scholarship Committee
3. Dr. Ewa Radwanska, M.D. Ph.D., Rush University Medical Center in Chicago
4. Prof. Bozena Shallcross, Department of Slavic Languages, University of Chicago

The work of the US Committee was assisted during the personal interview sessions at the Foundation's office in Warsaw by the members of the Polish Academic Commission which included a number of former Fellows of the Kosciuszko Foundation:

1. Prof. Agata Bielik-Robson, Institute of Philosophy and Sociology, Polish Academy of Science in Warsaw. Former Fellow of the Kosciuszko Foundation

(l-r) Mr. Joseph E. Gore, Esq. Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Kosciuszko Foundation, Prof. Ewa Miklaszewska, Economic University of Krakow, Director of Banking Unit, Faculty of Management and Social Communication, Jagiellonian University, Krakow, Prof. Bozena Shallcross, Department of Slavic Languages, University of Chicago, Ms. Maryla Janiak, Vice President of the Kosciuszko Foundation, Dr. Ronald J. Hagadus, M.D. Chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Kosciuszko Foundation, Prof. M.B. Biskupski, Department of History, Central Connecticut State University, New Britain, CT.

2. Dr. Maria Ciemerych-Litwinienko, Department of Embryology, Institute of Zoology, Warsaw University. Former Fellow of the Kosciuszko Foundation
3. Dr. Andrzej Dakowski, Director of the Polish Fulbright Commission in Warsaw.
4. Prof. Slawomir Jozefowicz, Assistant Professor, Faculty of Journalism and Political Science Institute of Political Science, Warsaw University. Former Fellow of the Kosciuszko Foundation
5. Dr. Jaroslaw Kusmierczyk, Assistant Professor, Clinic of Ophthalmology – Center for Medical Training Prof. W. Orłowski Hospital, Warsaw, Poland. Former Fellow of the Kosciuszko Foundation
6. Prof. Zbigniew Lasocik, LL.D. Dean, Law Department, The Lazarski School of Commerce and Law in Warsaw. Former Fellow of the Kosciuszko Foundation
7. Prof. Ewa Miklaszewska, Economic University of Krakow, Director of Banking Unit, Department of Finance, Faculty of Finance, Department of Economics and Management, Faculty of Management and Social Communication, Jagiellonian University. Former Fellow of the Kosciuszko Foundation

Dr. Ronald Hagadus, Chairman of the Kosciuszko Foundation Scholarship Committee, along with Joseph E. Gore, Esq, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Kosciuszko Foundation and Ms. Maryla Janiak, Vice President/Educational Programs presided over the personal interviews which were conducted in the English language, thereby evaluating the English proficiency of the candidates. Each interview lasted approximately 30 minutes, including Committee discussions prior to and after each session. Following the interviews, the candidates were ranked in order from the highest to lowest score. The discussions at the end of each interview created a good basis for evaluating the overall excellence and the importance of their research proposals both in their fields of study and to Poland. Careful consideration was given to the choice of the US educational institution selected by the candidates for conducting their research projects. In order to evaluate the merit of the candidates' research proposals, their clarity and seriousness of purpose and the persuasiveness of their arguments for conducting research in the United States, members of the Committees reviewed the files of all candidates beforehand. For the academic year 2010/2011 all applications were reviewed by the New York Office and subsequently prepared and presented for evaluation by the two Committees. Of the 40 applicants who were interviewed 21 were selected for funding.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND GRANTS FOR AMERICANS 2010-2011

We are now in the midst of the spring semester. The better portion of academic year 2010 – 2011 is already behind us and Kosciuszko Foundation's scholarships are currently supporting the students whose names are listed below.

The listing represents an allocation by the Kosciuszko Foundation Board of Trustees of $215,880 in scholarships to Americans of Polish descent for a period that encompasses Summer 2010 through June 2011. Of this amount $151,000 is awarded as Tuition Scholarships to 54 Americans of Polish descent towards their graduate studies in the United States. An additional $10,700 is awarded to 9 students through the Polish American Club of North Jersey, the Polish National Alliance of Brooklyn, USA Inc. and the Massachusetts Federation of Polish Women's scholarships. These scholarships support undergraduate students who are affiliated with the Polish American Club of North Jersey, the Polish National Alliance of Brooklyn, USA Inc. and undergraduate students who live in Massachusetts.

This year 10 students are attending programs in Poland through the Kosciuszko Foundation's exchange program with the Polish Ministry of National Education to study Polish language and culture as part of the Foundation's Year Abroad program at the Jagiellonian University's Center of Polish Language and Culture in the World. The Polish Ministry provides scholarship recipients with a tuition waiver, dormitory housing and funding for living expenses. Each student receives additional funding from the Foundation, in aggregate amounting to $12,150.

The Foundation's exchange program is also supporting a student for a research project in Poland. Funding is provided through the Foundation's Graduate Studies and Research in Poland program in cooperation with the Polish Ministry of National Education. The Polish Ministry provides dormitory housing, funding for living expenses, use of academic facilities and access to archives. In addition, the Kosciuszko Foundation awards $2,250 in additional support which is used for living expenses during the research period.

Lastly, in addition to the funding for the year long program, the Foundation awarded $39,780 in Tomaszkiwicz-Florio Scholarships to 17 American students to attend the 2010 Summer language programs at the Jagiellonian University in Krakow. Each scholarship recipient received $2,340.

The grants and scholarships for Americans were made possible through the funds listed below. We are pleased to present the scholarship recipients for the 2010 Summer programs and the 2010 - 2011 academic year.

GIVING TO THE KOSCIUSZKO FOUNDATION: HOW TO FULFILL YOUR WISHES THROUGH A CHARITABLE BEQUEST

Much of the financial strength of the Kosciuszko Foundation has come through the years from its members and friends who provided for the Foundation in their wills. It is easy to insert a charitable bequest into your will when it is written or as a revision. You may also add a bequest through a codicil - a separate document that provides an amendment to your existing will. Regardless of the size of your estate or of your bequest, the full value of your gift may be deductible for Federal estate tax purposes.

Here are ways you can support the Kosciuszko Foundation through your will:

A specific bequest is a gift of a specific dollar amount or a particular piece of property. For example, "I bequeath [dollar amount or description of property] to The Kosciuszko Foundation, Inc."

A residuary bequest is a gift of all or part of the property remaining in your estate after debts, expenses and specific bequests have been paid. For example, "I give, bequeath and devise [all, or ___% of] the rest, residue and remainder of the property, both real and personal, wherever situated, which I may own or be entitled to at my death, to The Kosciuszko Foundation, Inc." The Kosciuszko Foundation encourages gifts by residuary bequest. If your gift is stated as a percentage, this method automatically adjusts the size of your bequest according to your current financial position. This gives you flexibility and peace of mind that your bequest will not be larger or smaller than you had intended, in the event of unexpected changes in the size of your estate. Residuary bequests are also beneficial for the Foundation. People are often surprised by how much their assets can grow over time – and by how large an ultimate gift they are able to make to support the Foundation's mission.

A contingent bequest is a gift that takes effect only if the primary beneficiary or beneficiaries of the bequest should predecease you. For example, "If neither my husband nor any descendant of mine survive me, then I give, bequeath and devise all the rest, residue and remainder of the property, both real and personal, wherever situated, which I may own or be entitled to at my death, to The Kosciuszko Foundation, Inc."

Perhaps the most effective asset to bequeath is the reminder of your retirement plans, such as pension funds or IRAs. When left to someone other than your spouse, they can be subject to income and estate taxes – both of which combined could erode over 80% of the remaining benefits! If bequeathed to the Foundation, these funds would escape both income and estate taxes, and reduce your taxable estate.

How will the Kosciuszko Foundation use my gift?

An unrestricted bequest is the simplest and most immediately beneficial kind of bequest to the Kosciuszko Foundation. The amount received through an unrestricted bequest can be used at the discretion of the Foundation's Trustees and administration for its most important needs, which may change from time to time. Your will may read, "I give, bequeath and devise [dollar amount, description of property or portion of residuary estate] to The Kosciuszko Foundation, Inc. for its general purposes."

A restricted bequest provides cash or property to be used by the Foundation for a specific Foundation program or named scholarship fund. If you are considering a restricted bequest, please call the Foundation's Development Office at 212-734-2130 and we will be happy to talk to you about your wishes and provide you with a personal outline of funding requirements and possibilities.

Whichever method you choose, remember that your gifts may take many forms and serve many purposes, including honoring the memory of someone you love.
